

If watching people react to your sneaky pranks and scares gives you fits of laughter, then this is absolutely the post for you! No one will ever suspect a thing. Shhhhh ☐

Wasabi “matcha” cookies

Picture credits: <http://bbritnell.com/matcha-cookies/>

Looks like an innocent matcha cookie? That’s the fun part ☐ Replace matcha powder with wasabi paste and watch your friend’s face cringe. You could modify this recipe.

Jello drink-or-not

photo credit: cupcakeskissesncrumbs.blogspot.sg

Surely, this jello drink is going fool everyone. Look at how real and deceiving they are! Prank level: GENIUS.

Easter “chocolate” egg

Picture credits: <http://www.viralnova.com/silk-print-eggs/>

Easter's just round the corner and if you have some time to spare, wrap real eggs instead of a chocolate egg, put them all in a basket and offer it at work. For best results, wrap it as fancily as possible. Otherwise, decorated foil would work too ☐

Brussel sprouts dark chocolates

© Wales News Service

Picture

credits: <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/femail/article-2301139/Chocolate-Brussels-sprouts-Easter-Tara-Hammett-Swansea-creates-nutritious-helathy-alternative-eggs.html>

You know what's fun? Dip brussel sprouts in dark chocolate and place it in an expensive box of chocolates (like Godiva). Cook up a story about it, like how your cousin brought these from Paris, and made with only the finest cocoa quality... you get the drift. Muahaha!

Salty gummy bears

Picture

credits: <http://www.bedriddenhead.com/2012/04/how-sour-sugared-gummy-bears-ruined-my.html>

These may look as if it's sugar coated, but it's not! There's more than meets the eye ☹ It's good for a quick and easy prank if you don't have time to bake.

Nasty Brownies

Picture credits: <http://www.inspiredtaste.net/24412/cocoa-brownies-recipe/>

The colour of brownies makes it perfect to add ANYTHING you want in it ☺ hehe. Add something odd, like garlic chilli, mustard or even fish sauce?!

Fresh blue milk

Picture credits: <http://inspired.disney.co.uk/cook/star-wars-blue-milk/>

Nothing could be worse than opening a fresh pack of BLUE milk!! Add a few drops of blue colouring (we reckon red colouring would be fun heh) into a freshly opened milk carton. It's perfect for pranking your siblings, or parents!